

ABSTRACT

A recording and reproducing device comprising control input means to input password, password managing part to manage the inputted password, the first program list recording part from which is read only when the inputted password matches the password in password managing part, the second program list recording part from which is read when password is not inputted or when the inputted password is wrong, and program list forming means to form program list of desired program which is read from the first or the second program list recording part.